Bryan – summer job

Hook	It was 2 AM, pitch black out and the roaring monster that was the 150 foot tall log stacking conveyor ground to a halt. Little did I know that my life was about to change forever.
Setup	My dad had helped build the mill he then worked in for the rest of his life, and he and mom instilled in we kids a love of reading and learning that has remained with us all, along with respect for our elders and authority.
Parachute	After the machinery stopped screeching, and my Crew Boss stopped cussing, he ordered me and a wiry little coworker up the stacker, which was now jammed tight with tons of four foot long sections of logs.
Theme	Authority spoke, gave direction and I responded.
Transition	So much for blind faith in my trusted authority. Strike any sort of a chord with you
The Sell	If you would like the benefit of more of my hard won insights on not getting trapped in rabbit holes as you move your business towards your vision, I want you to check out my article here at ..... : it
